

Bedroom colors go for soft, relaxing

Color trends in the bedroom are all about creating a personal space that expresses your innermost desires. For many of us, that means a retreat in which we can relax and rejuvenate.

The Color Marketing Group (www.colormarketing.org) is a not-for-profit international group of more than 1,100 designers who meet annually to forecast color trends. The group predicts that the environment will continue to play a big role in soothing shades for the bedroom that are borrowed from nature.

"Greens and browns are a classic combo that's very popular right now," says Seattle designer Nancy Satterberg. "It's a great combo for the bedroom because of the feeling of warmth."

Here are some ideas for the bedroom:

Pair soothing earth tones with vibrant gold and glittering crystal for a bold, nontraditional look.

Look for softer, more botanical greens paired with blues that reflect the colors of the sky and water.
